

December 23, 2012's Bulletin—Chapter 2

Because so many interesting things have been happening at Rosary, I am sending the pictures of the packing of the Christmas baskets in a separate E-Mail. I am always afraid to send to “big” a document, so here is Chapter 2:

Thanks to Sister Joan's work and the donations of so many friends, we were able to really stock up on produce and fruit.

From the balcony you can see the “assembly line” process as the boxes are slowly filled.

Trina Martell, Olivia and Fred Rotach are hard at work while Sister Joan and Cathy Strunk discuss logistics in the back.

Jo Rottach shows her “managerial skills” as she juggles cord and green beans and still manages to fill the boxes!

Shawn Tilson invited his friend Jewel to help and she enjoyed the day! It's amazing what Mac and Cheese can do!!

Sean Tilson and his friend and Roberto (Koro) discuss the mathematical/engineering requirements of packing baskets!

Olivia Holley is already an old “pro” at this. She has helped many times in the last few years.
